Prayers in Islam

- Heather

- 25 Mar 2005

To

- me

As-Salaamu-Alaykum

Dear Dr. Umar Azam,

I am very sorry that I did not respond to your email the way you requested. I was in the process of working on my thesis.

I have been looking over Prayers in Islam many times and there are several ways you can improve the booklet.

a] Is the work easy to read?

Yes, but the fonts are too large.

b] How can the work be useful?

The work can be useful to many people, but Muslims will be the ones to want to read it. You can advertise it in many ways, or professionally publish it as a book that people buy, or you can self-publish the booklet on your website for a small fee.

c] How can it be improved?

1) It would be nice if you could put it in Adobe Acrobat (pdf) form, so changes cannot be made to it once you've typed it. Also offer it in word for those who cannot download pdf files.

2)The font is too big for both Arabic and English. Should be compact, but easy to read.

3) Utilize as much space for the words, so when you print, there are 20-25 fewer pages.

d] How can it be promoted?

You can promote it on your website and on other Islamic sites like the MSA and Yahoo groups for Muslims. There many ways on the internet to get people to know you and your writings. One of the best ways is through forums or blogs spots that Muslims frequent. There are too many, so you will have to figure out which ones are best. Once the word is out and they like it, the news will spread rapidly. Believe me.

That's all I can think of for now. I hope this helps.

Heather

Dear Umar,

Over the past several months, we have been reviewing the thousands of poems submitted to

After an exhaustive examination of this poetic artistry, The International Library of Poetry is pleased to inform you that you have been nominated for inclusion in ...

The International Who's Who in Poetry

Congratulations on your accomplishment, Umar. We look forward to publishing your biographical information on a page dedicated entirely to you. Along with your biographical information, we plan to also include in depth information about your poetry, including your motivations, the meaning poetry has in your life, and your personal philosophical point of view. In addition to dedicating a page entirely to you and your personal background, we have also reserved a second complete page that will be used to showcase a new, unpublished poem that you will provide. This means that ...

The International Who's Who in Poetry will be among the finest quality and most interesting books we have ever produced. Poets from several nations around the world will be featured. Every aspect of publication and design will display an uncompromising level of craftsmanship and attention to detail. This four hundred page coffee-table quality book will be printed in two colors on fine milled paper and will feature a highly detailed, ornate cover, and quality typography throughout. It will make a handsome addition to any library, a treasured family keepsake, or a highly valued personal gift.
