RE:

To

I was not and am not panicking in the slightest. But Islamic, or unislamic, I don't appreciate people sending me fwds/e-mails without me knowing them, or without me subscribing to something. In all sense, it falls in the category of junk mail. Because at the end, many junks were intended for good by the initiator, but it's unsolicited mail for many recievers. I hope you understand what I mean. Salaam Alikom.

RE:

To

Wow!!! Am I surprised to get a reply like yours or what!!! Nowhere in my mail it said what you said. If you couldn't understand plain english, then no point elongating any kind of conversation here. And seems like you are only taking it to an argument.

I have the right to tell someone not to mail me when I don't know them. And that's exactly what I said. I get about 150 - 200 e-mails per day. All about religion. Now obviously someone won't be reading absolutely all of that per day, everyday. Now just because I won't read all and I'd delete some doesn't mean I am disrespecting Islam to the slightest. Similarly, looking at YOUR mail [not islam/prayer] as a bulk/junk has nothing to do with Islam itself.

If you look at it for a sec. here, just by picking up address from another subscription group or wherever.... is exactly what junk mailers do to advertise their products, or gain viewers of certain sites etc. How is your mail different from this criteria? If you must fwd, and you are a writer or whatever it is, you can always do this through the subscription group where you picked up the addresses from.

All I'm saying is, it's rude to e-mail someone without knowing them. And I really don't appreciate someone doing that. Specially knowing they are Muslim [non-Muslim not having manner is understandable]. You'll notice, even when you subscribe to a group, they send you an e-mail to make sure that it's okei with the reciever to get the subscription. FOR A REASON!!! So next time please remember the above, and my last e-mail. [The paragraph below is to you ONLY if you are still getting uncomfortable in any way]

By now, if you still don't understand that my previous mail/this mail meant nothing harmful to you or offensive to religion.... KNOW THAT... YOU WON'T GET IT NEXT TIME EITHER. So there is ABSOLUTELY NO NEED to keep this conversation going. BASICALLY, It doesn't bring any benefit... either way!!!

If you are still striving to say more again[or write me again], it'd be quite obvious that your intentions are not pure. so all I'd like to do then is, not open/read it, and BLOCK your address!!! So no more replies from me either.[I have better things to do! I hope you too] Remember, it's not a good thing in Islam to annoy someone either! [specially a Muslim]

Salaam Alikom

Salaam Dr Umar,

I've already been in the process of trying to add the new content to your website, its just a case of finding the necessary time to be able to create the new file, and update the new links for all the other pages. The main problem however is that the your old internet company designed the website very badly for future updates. Basically this means that if the website needs updating, lots and lots of files need to be changed as well as new files being created, and so it takes a long time to do.

Have you considered a revamp of your website? I only say this because a new website would not only make your website look better, it would also reduce the file size of your website, and also make adding new material in the future much much simpler!

Bilal

Salaam Dr Umar,

I've finally managed to add your new content to your website. Unfortunately I had to remove all the formatting such as the highlight colours etc from all the text. Because the file was so big and had so much design information (eg colours and highlights etc) from Microsoft Word, it kept making my computer crash when I tried to convert the file into a HTML version.

If you do decide for a revamp, I'm sure Network World Networks will do an extremely good job and create something that is easy to update for you, and easy to navigate, fast to load up and simple to read, for all your readers.

Kind regards,

Salaam Dr Umar,

The choice to revamp or not is entirely up to you. There is a mentality among certain people that says, "Whats the point of trying to fix something if it works fine?". My opinion would be that the internet is an extremely rapidly evolving industry, and something may "...work fine", but there is always room for improvement!

I will try again to transform your original Word document into a HTML document. But as I said previously because of the size of the transformed file, my computer keeps crashing. But I will keep trying!

Regards,

Bill

PS I'm sure your IT consultant friend would also agree that no football manager would use the same team, the same strategy, the same tactics, the same training, the same nutrition, etc indefinitely. Instead football managers try to get the most up-to-date information available and remain flexible to stay on top of their game or they risk relegation into a lower league!

We're glad that you are happy with our work. We try our best to keep our clients happy, unfortunately because we are a small company with an extremely large number of clients, projects do tend to take longer than with some other design companies. Other companies may tend to rush work along and do a bad job just to get things done, but our belief is that we should try and maintain a high level of service no matter what.

We wish you and your website lots of success and look forward to helping you in any way that we can.

The Word Allah In The Arabic Bible

Abu Imân ʿAbd ar-Raḥmân Robert Squires

Just a few examples for those who are still in doubt . . .

The images below, with the exception of the first image, were taken directly from The Holy Bible in Arabic. Referred to in Arabic as al-Kitâb al-Muqadis (i.e. ,The Holy Book), this is the scripture which is used by Arabic-speaking Christians (of which there are still about 15 to 20 million in the Middle East). So that those unfamiliar with Arabic script have something to compare these images with, the first image below is a verse from the Qur'ân - which is the Muslim scripture. In the images, the Arabic word Allah is underlined in red so that it can be easily identified. Upon comparing the images, one should be able to clearly see that the word Allah appears in both the Qur'anic and Arabic Bible images. Indeed, the word Allah appears throughout Arabic translations of the Bible, since it is simply the Arabic name for Almighty God. Insha'llah, the examples below will help quell the doubts of those who have been duped into believing that Muslims worship a different god - either by the hostile media or by Christian missionary propaganda. We hope that this serves as enough documentation for those who still have doubts about this. We could think of no other way to prove this point, except to encourage everyone to do further critical and open-minded research on their own. Please, don't forget to compare the images . . .

Dear Dr.Umar Azam,

Thank you very much for your interest in the Fractal Star Award and for the application dated May 26, 2005.

For sure your site means a very important contribution to the Web, for all its outstanding qualities, and deserves the success it has met.

However, as per our Rules page, item 5 (<http://www.rob.atelie.nom.br/award/awrules.htm>), our team can't evaluate religious sites. This has been defined from the beginning as a basic criteria for our awards program.

I hope you will carry on your important work, and wish you success!

Kind regards,

Hello Dr. Azam,

thanks a lot for your interest and the application for my "Frozen Angel" award program.

We have gladly visited your site but need to tell that you will not reach the status (yet).

There are a lot requests in the last time, asking for reasons why the status has not been reached or for tips and tricks to make the homepage better. I am very sorry to say that I can only answer questions by applicants, whose site have reached the status and no award has been given. It's a problem of time ;)
I really hope you will accept my statement and are not angry about it!

Please, don't be sad or disappointed; our opinion is just for our program and surely you will get other feedback from other awardgivers!

Have success and joy with your site!

Many greetings,

Petra

No worries I'll find out.

Let me know your thoughts about these dreams.

The first one was 10 years ago.

I could not tell whether I was asleep or not, but it was during the night. I saw light every where, it was nothing I had ever seen before, it was very beautiful a bright gold colour, fresh. I felt it was Allah, I sensed he was upset with me and was warning me not to take a particular path. I found myself asking for forgiveness and reciting every prayer I knew.

I had another dream about Prophet Muhammed (PBUH) and his wife Ayesha. All three of us were in a desert, we were talking. I sensed I was the Prophets right hand person.

I could also sense the devil muttering something bad, trying to deter me from the Prophet, but I could not see him.

We entered a cave, which was prison. I saw my father behind bars, The Prophet had asked me to talk to him (or something to the effect of that) and I refused on the grounds that my father had upset my family & I. Suddenly the cave began to collapse we ran outside, but my father remained inside. The Prophet asked me to go and get him. So I did.

More recently I had an epiphany, a realisation of Allah. (this was not a dream) I was in the bathroom hanging towels when suddenly fear had over come me, I had a realisation of Allah, his power and the reality of this life. I think I sensed his presense, I was in fear more out of great respect for him than anything else. This feeling lasted for a second then left. But I felt I needed to do something positive for Islam.

Alot of my dreams have been coming true. I even dreamt of Rahila, whom I hadn't seen for 7 years. I dreamt her marriage to a man from abroad. A fews days later I heard from sources that Rahila was marrying a man from abroad.

Let me know your thoughts on this.

Kind regards,

Iman

Salam, Iman

It was a pleasure to come on BBC GMR and I enjoyed the interview with Pam; thanks for inviting me. Do you have access to the Diversity Database? If so, could you check to see if my details are on it? I've been waiting for 2 years for a television invitation but have not been contacted [that doesn't mean that Im not interested in radio any more]. The more my expertise is used, the better for BBC listeners/viewers!
